

Dear Medical School Learning Community,

Today, the Association of American Medical Colleges (AMMC) and Liaison Committee on Medical Education (LCME) recommended that, effective immediately, medical schools should pause all student clinical rotations until at least March 31. We have elected to align with this recommendation, effective immediately. Virtual learning opportunities can continue for our medical students.

According to the AAMC and LCME, “this pause will allow the medical education community, including learners, to develop appropriate educational strategies and alternative clinical experiences to best assure safe, meaningful clinical learning for students. It will also help with current concerns about the availability of personal protective equipment.”

The statement is available here:

<https://www.aamc.org/coronavirus-resources-academic-medicine-community>.

We’re disappointed that our students cannot be with us at this important time, and hope to bring them back as soon as it is feasible.

Sincerely,

Marschall S. Runge, M.D., Ph.D.
Dean, U-M Medical School
Executive Vice President for Medical Affairs
CEO, Michigan Medicine

Carol R. Bradford, M.D., M.S., FACS
Executive Vice Dean for Academic Affairs, Medical School
Chief Academic Officer, Michigan Medicine
Professor of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery

Rajesh S. Mangrulkar, M.D.
Associate Dean for Medical Student Education, U-M Medical School
Marguerite S. Roll Professor of Medical Education

Joseph C. Kolars, M.D.
Senior Associate Dean for Education and Global Initiatives
Josiah Macy Jr. Professor of Health Professions Education