THE GRADWOHL ART OR PRIMARY CARE AWARD AND LECTURESHIP FUND

STEVEN E. GRADWOHL, MD

A “physician’s physician” known for his devotion to high-quality patient care and training future clinicians, Steven E. Gradwohl, MD, died following a car accident on May 18, 2013.

Steve had been on the U-M Medical School faculty since 1994 and was a clinical assistant professor of internal medicine and practiced general internal medicine at the Briarwood Medical Group.

The Gradwohl Art of Primary Care Innovations is an opportunity for colleagues in primary care practice to come together annually to network, learn together about issues relevant to patient care and teaching in the outpatient setting, and strive to sustain the caliber of excellence we aim for at Michigan Medicine.

Enjoy the Event!
