Seeking an Academic Nephrologist in Beautiful Upstate New York!

The Division of Nephrology at Albany Medical College is seeking a full-time Academic Nephrologist. The Division of Nephrology and Hypertension currently has five Adult Nephrology faculty at Albany Medical College and four Adult Nephrology faculty at the VA that closely collaborate with two pediatric nephrologists, two transplant surgeons and two renal pathologists. The Division of Nephrology and Hypertension has very active inpatient consult (teaching) services, renal transplant services, outpatient hemodialysis patient care, hypertension referral clinic, and a vibrant chronic kidney disease outpatient program.

In joining our academic faculty, the successful candidate will enjoy ample opportunities to teach medical students, residents and nephrology fellows. Research and other scholarly work is encouraged and supported commensurate with the skills and accomplishments of the clinician scientist.

The Division of Nephrology has a fully accredited nephrology fellowship program. The successful applicant will bring a track record of unique subspecialty clinical expertise and demonstrable excellence in medical education. Experience in clinical research is highly desirable. It is anticipated that the candidate will be Assistant Professor -level eligible. Salary is competitive.

Albany Medical College is one of the nation’s oldest medical schools, having been founded in 1837, and is the only academic tertiary and quaternary care hospital in the Capital District region of New York.

Located at the heart of New York’s Capital Region, Albany is a culturally and environmentally diverse area that is home to nearly one million residents. The three main cities of the Capital Region-Albany, Troy, and Schenectady, and their suburbs, just a short commute away-offer a range of affordable, safe, and comfortable neighborhoods with quality schools and active community groups.
