About the Learning Health System (LHS) Collaboratory:
Across the U-M campus, many faculty, students and staff share interest in the concept of a LHS. By creating a campus-wide hub for these interests, the LHS Collaboratory advances interdisciplinary research and promotes the development of learning health systems. Through collaboration, U-M could become the world-wide academic epicenter for the LHS, and the Collaboratory seeks to realize that potential.

Join peers, thought leaders, LHS subject matter experts and others interested in Learning Health Systems at one of these informative events for the Winter 2020 LHS Collaboratory Seminar Series.

All events are held from 12:00 pm - 1:30 pm with lunch included.

Akbar K. Waljee, MD, MSc
Associate Professor, Gastroenterology and Hepatology, University of Michigan Department of Internal Medicine
January 30, 2020 in Anderson Room (1st floor) Michigan Union

Erik Gordon, PhD
Clinical Assistant Professor, University of Michigan Ross School of Business
February 25, 2020 in Great Lakes Rooms, Palmer Commons

Stefan Boes, PhD, MSc
Professor of Health Economics, Director Center for Health, Policy and Economics (CHPE), University of Lucerne
March 24, 2020 in Great Lakes Rooms, Palmer Commons

For more information or to register, contact LHSCollaboratory-info@umich.edu or visit dlhs-umi.ch/lhs-collaboratory