Urology Department Faculty and Staff

1 Item, 4 Minutes

In just over a month, numerous faculty and staff from the Department of Urology will make their way to Boston, Massachusetts for the annual meeting of the American Urological Association (AUA). The gathering is a great opportunity for doctors, APPs and administrators to learn more about their profession and network with colleagues from other institutions, and in this issue of What's New, we'll take a look at some of the activities taking place at this year's event.

Lectures, presentations and scientific sessions make up a majority of the daily AUA activity, and as usual, the Department will be well represented in these forums. Just like in previous years, the U-M Department of Urology will have numerous faculty, fellows and residents speaking at scientific sessions, presenting posters and contending for awards.

Last year saw numerous U-M urologists take home honors, including a Lifetime Achievement Award for Dr. Jim Montie and a Resident Bowl victory for the North Central AUA chapter, which featured U-M Urology resident Ian McLaren. Best of luck to everyone involved this year!

U-M Urology representatives who will be presenting at this year's event include (but are not limited to):

- Dr. Anne Cameron and Dr. John Stoffel, who will join Dr. Anne Suskind of UC San Francisco to present on urological care for the patient with a progressive neurological condition
- Dr. Greg Auffenberg, who will be making numerous podium and poster presentations
- Dr. Susanne Quallich, who will be discussing her work on chronic genital pain in multiple forums

A full list of presenters and topics can be found in the program section of the official AUA 2017 website.

In addition to the action happening on the floor of the convention center, there will be a flurry of dialogue occurring on social media. This year, the #AUA17 hashtag will serve as the official organizing handle on social media, and the AUA social media accounts have already started to put it to use in preparing attendees.

Last year, U-M Urologists were among the most active social media participants, with many being highlighted by the AUA as "Influencers" and "Accounts to Follow," and this year should yield similar results.

To conclude the festivities, our Department of Urology will once again host the annual Nesbit Society Reception on the Sunday evening of the long AUA weekend. The event brings together current and former Urology faculty, fellows and residents, as well as friends of the Department and the Nesbit Alumni Society.

If you are interested in attending, please send an RSVP message to myself (aneric@med.umich.edu) or Tammie Leckemby (tderry@umich.edu).

Thank you for taking the time to read this edition of What's New, we hope to see you at this year's event!
