

What's New – August 30, 2019 Welcome to Our Three New Urology Fellows!

Alyssa Greiman

Alyssa joins us as the incoming NPR fellow. She is moving from Charleston, SC with her fiancé, Aaron. She completed her medical school training at Northwestern University and her residency at the Medical University of South Carolina. She is excited to be back in the Midwest and is looking forward to seeing what real college football looks like.

I was born and raised in Franklin, Michigan. I obtained my Bachelor of Science in Sociology and medical degree here at the University of Michigan. I then completed my Urology residency at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Michigan. During residency I identified stone disease and minimally invasive surgery as my primary areas of interest. I am now completing a 2-year endourology fellowship here, with my first year focused on health science research within the field of stone disease. My wife Kellianne, who is a cardiac surgery resident here, and I just welcomed our first baby, Ariel. Kellianne and I are passionate about international travel, global medicine and spending time outdoors.

Spencer Hiller

Randy Vince

I was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland as the oldest of four siblings. Growing up, I developed a passion for athletics and attended Towson University, where I was a Varsity Letterman in Football. At Towson University, I double majored in MB3 (Molecular biology, Biochemistry and Bioinformatics) and Chemistry. I later attended Louisiana State University Health Sciences Center in Shreveport where I earned my MD and subsequently completed residency at Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU) Health Systems. I developed a passion for Urologic Oncology, particularly renal cell carcinoma, after the passing of my grandmother in medical school; this has lead me here to the University of Michigan for Urologic Oncology fellowship.

While in Michigan, I look forward to making new friends and associates. When I am not working, I enjoy almost any water activity. I also have a passion for health and fitness, so you can always catch me doing some type of exercise. Lastly, but most importantly, I love spending time with my family and childhood friends—for they truly are my support system and without them I would not be the man I am today. I look forward to a great experience, as well as watching and cheering for Michigan sports!